

DWR appointed as RCF distributors

DWR's Jaco Beukes, Jason Johnstone and Darren Durbach looking forward to helping you with RCF.

DWR Distribution is pleased to announce its exclusive partnership as the official distributor of RCF products in South Africa. The very first shipment has arrived and includes various HDL Line Arrays, the ART Series including Art 7, Art 9 and Art 3, RCF Evox and a range of Subs, amps and accessories.

“Our search for an audio solution that serves both rental companies and permanent installations on a daily basis led us to RCF, and it has been a great pleasure to work with Massimo Bruni,” explained Robert Izzett, Sales Director at DWR Distribution. “We were in search of a brand known for its quality and reliability and capable of catering to a market segment beyond our current offerings. While DWR has excelled in serving high-income clients such as the rental and staging market, houses of worship, auditoriums, and theatres, we recognized the importance of expanding our solutions to those seeking a more cost effective range of equipment.”

For 75 years, RCF has been at the forefront of audio innovation. Founded in 1949 by dedicated engineers, RCF is committed to sound quality and advancing technology. Based in Reggio Emilia in Italy, RCF handles everything from research and development to manufacturing and distribution, ensuring quick delivery of market-ready products. This approach gives RCF a significant edge in quality, reliability, and value compared to others in the industry.

“We’re excited about the craftsmanship RCF brings to the table and with their focus on service, which aligns perfectly with how we do things at DWR,” said Robert. “We’re focussed on ensuring customer satisfaction and look forward to supporting RCF thorough product training and cool events like product launches and open days. Thank you for this opportunity.”
