DWR to distribute Prolyte

Posted on March 31, 2010

31 March 2010

DWR Distribution is privileged to provide Prolyte truss to the South African Market. DWR will work closely with Prosound, who are already Prolyte distributors, to ensure customers continue to receive outstanding service.

“The fact that we have two dedicated and very professional companies to distribute and back up our products in South Africa is a very positive development and underlines the fact that Prolyte is recognized as a professional brand,” commented Paul Haseloop from Prolyte. “To offer maximum service to the customers and users here is our main objective, which is strongly supported by both Prosound and DWR.”

Prolyte is one of the most accepted and commonly used truss in the country. “Gigs become simple if most rental companies use the same brand of trussing,” said Duncan Riley from DWR. “Rental companies can hire amongst each other and it makes it that much easier for them to get hold of a lot of truss if needed for a big gig.”

DWR Distribution would like to extend a sincere thanks to Prosound and Prolyte for this fantastic opportunity. For additional information, please contact Robert Izzett who will be glad to help.

Copyright © DWR Distribution