

Ernest Awuah invests in Avolites from DWR

Posted on November 13, 2015

Ernest Awuah a freelancing lighting designer and freelancer in Accra, Ghana, has purchased an Avolites Titan One from South African based DWR Distribution.

"I have been in the industry since 2007 and am still going strong," said Ernest who works as both a lighting designer and sound engineer. "I do most of my work in my country but when the opportunity steps in to travel outside the shores of my country I don't hesitate." He has worked in a number of countries including touring 40 cities within Sweden with a production, Denmark for an annual Roskilde festival, Guinea for an Akon musical concert show, Nigeria for a production and to South Africa for training at DWR Distribution.

"I heard of Titan One and Tiger Touch II during my training at DWR, and upon studying the product got to know that it was very convenient and simple to use in my career," explained Ernest. "I never had doubts about the product and truly speaking it has proved itself right on recent shows. I hope with the introduction of Titan One and Tiger Touch II and the collaboration from DWR in my career, the sky is the limit."