

Information pool: New dot2 blog online

Posted on November 30, 2015

MA has launched its dot2 blog for this exciting new lighting console range. This new online platform will connect everything related to dot2 that's happening on the internet, including Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, YouTube and other social channel mentions. Also, it will offer multiple ways for users to communicate with other dot2 users and MA Lighting.

Users can send pictures of their dot2 in action on projects and post them in the blog. They can learn more about the dot2 in the 'tips and tricks' section, find out about other dot2 users on the road in the 'stories' area, or discover all hot news and 'dates' – from trainings to tradeshow – in the dates section.

Besides the blog, there is also the dot2 website which offers multi-language product-related information, and the dot2 forum which is all about technical topics and support.

MA invites every dot2 user – and anybody who is interested in dot2 – to contribute to the dynamic new blog.

The blog can be found here: <https://blog.ma-dot2.com/>