

Philips Strand Lighting NEO console makes Edinburgh Festival
Fringe debut

Philips Strand Lighting NEO console makes Edinburgh Festival Fringe debut

Posted on September 7, 2015

Philips Strand Lighting NEO console makes Edinburgh Festival Fringe debut

Edinburgh, Scotland – One of the great additions to the Philips Strand lighting line of consoles, the NEO, has made its Edinburgh Festival Fringe debut, taking up residence for the duration of the arts festival in popular venue C South.

Philips Strand Lighting's "representative venue product C South" has set up in the performing companies coming through the space each day. It offers a platform of different light shows, ranging from Shakespeare plays to classical performances, performed by an international mix of companies from the UK, Europe, Korea, Singapore and Australia.

Philips Strand Lighting's "representative venue product C South" has set up in the performing companies coming through the space each day.

Philips Strand Lighting's "representative venue product C South" has set up in the performing companies coming through the space each day. It offers a platform of different light shows, ranging from Shakespeare plays to classical performances, performed by an international mix of companies from the UK, Europe, Korea, Singapore and Australia.

Philips Strand Lighting's "representative venue product C South" has set up in the performing companies coming through the space each day. It offers a platform of different light shows, ranging from Shakespeare plays to classical performances, performed by an international mix of companies from the UK, Europe, Korea, Singapore and Australia.

Philips Strand Lighting's "representative venue product C South" has set up in the performing companies coming through the space each day. It offers a platform of different light shows, ranging from Shakespeare plays to classical performances, performed by an international mix of companies from the UK, Europe, Korea, Singapore and Australia.

Philips Strand Lighting's "representative venue product C South" has set up in the performing companies coming through the space each day. It offers a platform of different light shows, ranging from Shakespeare plays to classical performances, performed by an international mix of companies from the UK, Europe, Korea, Singapore and Australia.

