

SOS reach out to Sean Crawley

Please keep our friend Sean Crawley, whose three-year-old son tragically passed away, in your hearts. The SOS Charity fund has donated R3 000 to assist his family at this terrible time.

The Covid-19 pandemic has been tough for the events industry and when Sean's work, as Head of Lighting at a Dubai based company, suddenly came to an end, he returned to South Africa. Sean had been home for six days when he and his wife, Chanéné, went out grocery shopping and received a phone call from his mom. The lifeless body of their son Kayden had been found in the swimming pool. The funeral was held last week Thursday.

There could be nothing worse than losing your child. If you know Sean, please reach out to him, make a phone call, send a message and keep him in your prayers. It won't take away the pain, but the family will be reminded that there are people who care about them.

Thank you to the entertainment industry who have stood with DWR Distribution to support the SOS Charity fund.
