

Tiger Touch II for Puredeal

Brian Chigwendere and Kgomotso Malbye from Puredeal with Schalk Botha from DWR.

Established in 2010 by Brian Chigwendere, rental company Puredeal is making waves in the entertainment industry and have taken ownership of a new Avolites Tiger Touch II to keep up with demand.

“We started off with an Avolites Titan One,” smiles Brian Chigwendere. He says the company after working at Gearhouse South Africa for eight years. “When I left I had a months salary and my garage from which I operated,” he says.

Hard work and good service has seen Puredeal grow in reputation and earlier this year saw Kgomotso Malbye join the team. “We were the first black rental company to do work at Vodaworld,” commented Kgomotso Malbye.

The Avolites Tiger Touch II, purchased from Schalk Botha at DWR Distribution, is flexible for both small and large shows. Watch this space, the skies the limit!

About the Tiger Touch II

With a 100% brighter screen, increased processing power, and faster graphics engine, the Tiger Touch II is the most specified Titan console.

The Avolites Tiger Touch II represents the perfect combination of power and portability. This third-generation console is packed with enough power for complex shows, yet small and light enough to fly in standard hold luggage. The console features SMPTE timecode support and a redesigned button layout to match the entire Titan range.
