

We almost lost Kyle in London...

We almost lost Kyle in London...

Posted on October 1, 2026

When you're as passionate about audio as Kyle Robson, sending him to London for an exclusive DiGiCo launch comes with a certain amount of risk.

We almost lost Kyle in London...

We almost lost Kyle in London...

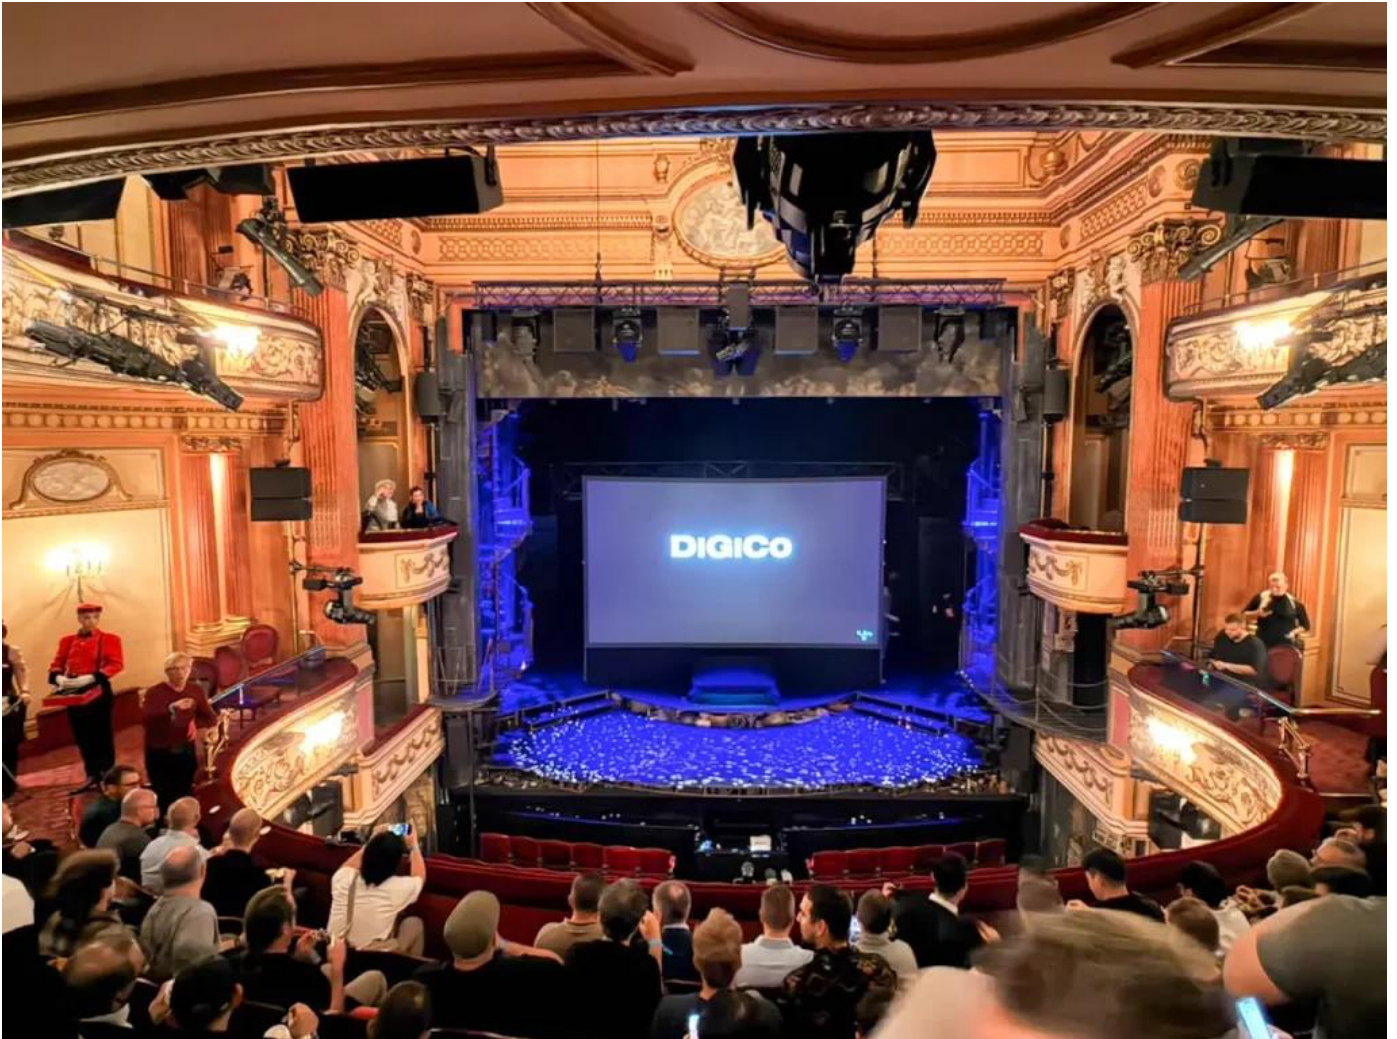

We almost lost Kyle in London...

We almost lost Kyle in London...

Kyle recently joined the DiGiCo team in London for the launch of the new DiGiCo 638 and 638T consoles — an event packed, in true DiGiCo fashion, with entertainment, information and plenty of networking.

We almost lost Kyle in London...

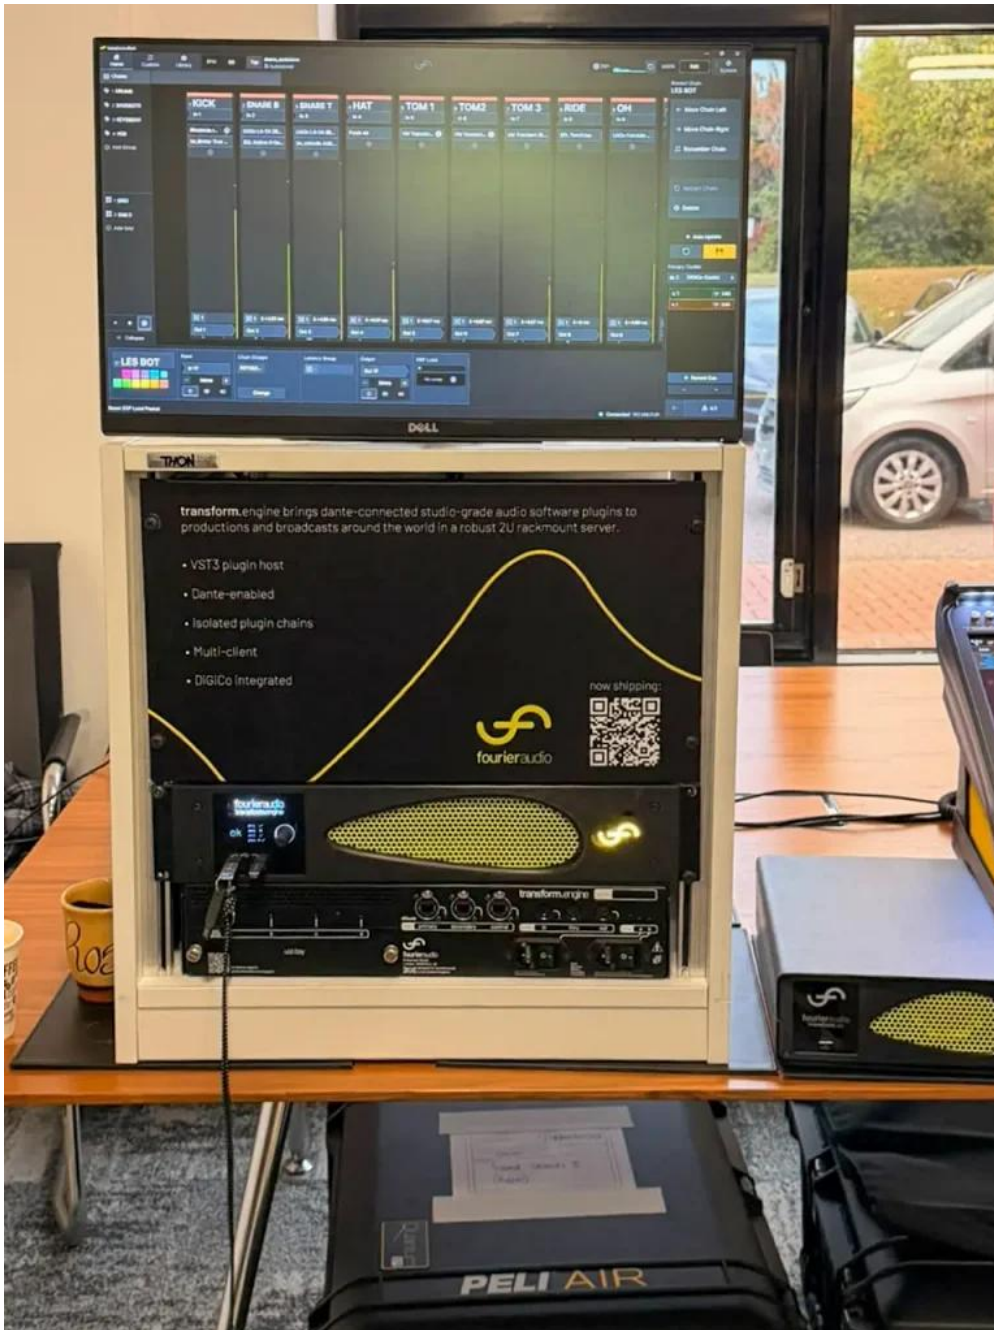

We almost lost Kyle in London...

"I've always loved the passion and enthusiasm the team have behind the brand. They listen to their customers and bring out what people want. This is an incredible design and the new 'act' that will set the benchmark for premium audio control."

We almost lost Kyle in London...

We almost lost Kyle in London...

And did Kyle enjoy the experience?

We think this says it all:

"Tried to bring one back, but unfortunately it was a bit too big to sneak out of the DiGiCo office."

We almost lost Kyle in London...

We almost lost Kyle in London...

We're glad he made it home. Although, judging by his excitement, we're not entirely sure he wanted to.