SelbyGuard Rainprotection

The weather is an uncertain factor for every event organiser. That is why SelbyGuard developed rain protection for lighting equipment that will prevent costly repairs and guarantee that the show will go on. Keeping a lighting fixture dry is an investment that is ultimately a fraction of the cost of insuring costly water repairs or resulting in downtime for damaged fixtures.

DWR Distribution is delighted to be the SelbyGuard® Rainprotection distributors in Africa.

Initially, in around 2016, DWR Distribution's Duncan Riley investigated a solution to help weather-proof lighting fixtures. "I was with Bram de Clerck, who worked at Controllux in Belgium at the time, and he said I had to talk to a company called SelbyGuard where I was introduced to a man named Tjeerd van den Haak," commented Duncan. Things moved quickly and SelbyGuard demo samples were received in South Africa. The team at DWR carried out demos to the South African rental market and DWR have been the official distributor since.

"One of the big selling points is that one water damage insurance claim could be the value of an entire Selbyguard order to protect the lighting fixtures," said Duncan Riley. "Setting up the Selbyguard covers is simple. It's really like rigging a standard moving light."

SelbyGuard produces Rainroofs and Airdomes for the professional lighting market. The products serve as rain protection for lighting equipment such as valuable Movingheads. An innovative, high quality, professional solution for lighting protection. All SelbyGuard products have been tested thoroughly. These tests take place in real show conditions and in severe weather like snow, rain and high winds. These essential tests and evaluations with lighting technicians allow SelbyGuard to continue to innovate in regards to technique and design. The product improvements translate into time saving ways for lighting technicians to install and take down the equipment.

Through the intensive collaboration with professionals from the field and strict quality controls, Selbyguard can live up to what the company stand for: to protect professional lighting equipment from rain, hail, snow, pyro confetti and dust. With SelbyGuard, the show goes on!

SelbyGuard offers a wide range of products and responds to a fast changing market in which new Movingheads are being released regularly. Known and lesser-known brands, various dimensions.
