

You are invited to the Robe Theatre Workshop in Cape Town & Johannesburg

Robe is rejuvenating theatre in South Africa with an unmissable opportunity to inspire lighting designers and technicians, young and old. You are invited!

Leading the LED theatre lighting innovation, join DWR Distribution for the Robe Theatre Workshop – a world tour, presented by renowned UK theatre designer Andy Webb. Andy will be joined by Robe Theatre Projects Manager, Dave Whitehouse, who is no stranger to South Africa, and Jordan Tinniswood, a lighting designer and programmer based in the UK. The workshop will be hosted at the Baxter Theatre in Cape Town on 1 August 2022 and at the UJ Arts Centre Theatre in Johannesburg on 5 August from 10 am to 4 pm.

Robe is incredibly innovative in pushing the LED envelope. The lighting manufacturer is continuously in touch with top lighting designers throughout the world in order to create an end product that meets the demands for all lighting applications. Robe's innovative approach regarding LED fixtures makes this workshop an event that should not be missed.

Andy and Dave will explain why LED has become an essential tool in theatre, diving deeply into colour, colour temperature and white source versus multi-spectral LED engines. The workshop will be followed by a Q & A session. Guests will also be able to see the fixtures up close and have a try themselves,

Although there is no charge, booking is essential.
